Our factory floor in Fredericksburg. From the tasting room, guests can watch the work through the windows.

HOW A BONBON IS MADE

From bean to bonbon

We start with the cacao bean and see it all the way to the finished piece. It is the long way to make chocolate, and it lets us decide how every piece in the box tastes.

A bonbon is made in stages. Our chocolatiers paint the mold, cast a thin shell, fill it, let the center set and seal it with chocolate. Then each piece is tapped out of the mold, checked and boxed by hand.

1

The shell

Color goes into the mold first. Then the mold is filled with tempered chocolate and turned over, so the extra drains away and a thin shell stays behind.

2

The center

Ganache, caramel or gianduja is piped into each shell, then left to set before the shell is sealed.

3

The shine

When the center has set, a chocolate cap seals it. Well-tempered chocolate comes out of the mold glossy and snaps clean.

See our bonbon collections starting on page 13, and pick your own nine on page 15.

PAINTED BY HAND

Bonbons & Ganache

Ganache-filled bonbons in hand-painted shells, cut ganache squares and crunchy gianduja, in flavors drawn from the Texas Hill Country and well beyond it.

Artisanal Bonbon Collection — $30

9 pieces

Our nine-piece Signature Artisanal Bonbon Collection holds our customers' top nine flavors. Every bonbon is handmade and individually designed, each with its own colors and pattern. It's a box for chocolate lovers and foodies who notice the craftsmanship as much as the taste.

Mexican Hot Chocolate Bonbons — $30

9-piece box

A warm dark chocolate base with hints of cinnamon, finished with a kick of cayenne pepper. Our Mexican Hot Chocolate bonbons come nine to a box, for anyone who likes a little heat with their chocolate.

Coffee with Okinawa Black Sugar Bonbon Collection — $30

Each hand-painted bonbon holds a cold brew coffee cream with a drop of concentrated Okinawa black sugar at its heart. The coffee lands first, bold and a little astringent, then the deep brown-sugar note rounds it out. A box for the person who takes their coffee seriously.

Fredericksburg Peach Yogurt Bonbons — $30

9-piece box

A salute to the Fredericksburg peach, the fruit our town is known for. Each box holds nine hand-decorated bonbons filled with a tangy blend of peach ganache and yogurt. A sweet gift for anyone who loves Fredericksburg peaches.

Crunchy Gianduja Collection — $30

9-piece box

Classic European gianduja, done our way. These bites blend creamy milk chocolate with the crunch of hazelnuts, so each square gives a little snap before it melts smooth. A customer favorite, and an easy gift for any chocolate lover.

Garrison Bros. Cut Ganache — $30

9-piece box

A European-style cut ganache made with Garrison Brothers bourbon, the Texas craft whiskey. We infuse dark chocolate ganache, pour it into slabs, cut clean squares on a chocolate guitar, then enrobe each one in a thin film of dark chocolate. Subtle whiskey notes, smooth finish.

Cremino $30

Three laminated layers of hazelnut and chocolate. Our hazelnut praline is made in our Fredericksburg factory from a long roast of hazelnuts, a fresh batch of almost-burnt caramel and plenty of time in our stone melanger, and it fills two of the three layers. Smooth, ultra nutty, and lovely with something sparkling.

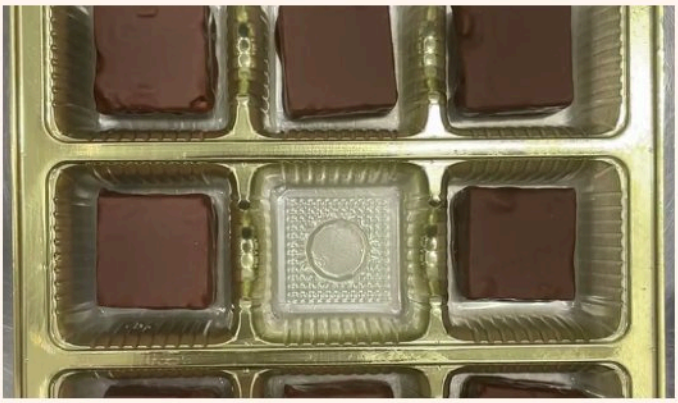

Crème Brûlée Cut Ganache $30

Everything you love about the classic dessert in a cut ganache truffle. Caramelized sugar shards are folded into smooth ganache, so every bite has that familiar creamy crunch. Each piece is decorated on top, a pretty box to give for the holidays.

AT HOME

Setting out chocolate for a crowd

A few small habits make a box of chocolates taste better, whether it is two of you by the fire or a full house on Christmas Eve.

01 Keep it cool, not cold
Store chocolate somewhere cool, dry and dark. The fridge can dull the shine.

02 Serve it at room temperature
Cold chocolate tastes muted. Give it time to warm up before guests arrive.

03 Go from light to dark
Taste white and milk chocolate before dark, and mild flavors before bold ones.

04 Let it melt
Hold a piece on your tongue for a moment before you chew. You taste more that way.

05 Pour something warm
Coffee, tea and our drinking chocolate (page 33) all sit well beside a plate of bonbons.

06 Bonbons first
Soft ganache centers are best soon. Bars, toffee and brittle keep longer.

FOR THE CUP AND THE SHELF

Bars & Drinking Chocolate

Our chocolate bars, plain or loaded with roasted almonds, cherries or coffee, and drinking chocolates made to stir into hot milk.

Gourmet Drinking Chocolate — $16

Just milk chocolate, done right. Smooth and creamy, with soft caramel-like notes and a clean, gentle finish.

White Chocolate Bar

$9.50

Soft, creamy and sweet. Made with cacao butter, it melts slowly on your tongue and leaves a gentle, milky sweetness behind.

Dark Chocolate Chopped Almond Bar

Deep dark chocolate with chopped almonds folded through it. The bold, slightly bitter edge of the chocolate is softened by the toasty crunch of almond, and because the nuts are chopped, no square comes up short.

FROM THE COPPER KETTLE

Popcorn, Brittle & Pecans

Caramel popcorn, peanut and pecan brittle, and roasted Texas pecans, sweet, salty or spicy.

Homemade Peanut Brittle — $16

8 oz

We make our peanut brittle the way Texans do, with Spanish peanuts and a traditional recipe from Dan's childhood. It is stretched by hand in small batches, so every bag is full of crunch. Each bag holds 8 ounces.

Cinnamon Roasted Pecans — $16

8 oz

Texas Crispy Pecans, made from premium pecan halves grown in San Saba, Texas. We glaze them with our own process, then roast them at a low temperature for a long time. They come out crispy, with just the right amount of cinnamon sweetness.

Spicy South Texas Caramel Popcorn $18

9 oz bag · Contains tree nuts, peanuts, milk, soy

We cook a house-made caramel with the flavors of South Texas, cumin and chili, then fold in popcorn, peanuts, cashews and pecans. Made in small batches at our factory in the Texas Hill Country, it brings a gentle warmth under every sweet, crackling handful.

Hill Country Caramel Popcorn $18

9 oz

Our classic caramel popcorn, made by hand in a copper kettle in small batches and mixed with peanuts, cashews and pecans. Sweet, crunchy and easy to share, it comes in a 9 oz bag for snacking at home or setting out for friends.

Pecan Brittle $16

8 oz

Old-fashioned brittle made with pecans we buy straight from farmers in San Saba, Texas. We stretch it by hand in our Fredericksburg factory, which keeps every piece crispy. It comes in an 8 ounce bag.

Roasted Salted Pecans $16

8 oz

Our Texas Crispy Pecans start as premium halves grown in San Saba, Texas, some of the best in the state. We coat them with our signature glazing process, then roast them low and slow for a long time. The result is a crisp pecan with just the right sweet and salty crunch.

Spicy Roasted Pecans $16

8 oz

Texas Crispy Pecans, made from premium halves grown in San Saba, Texas. We give them our signature glaze, then roast them at a low temperature for a long time, until they turn crispy with just the right amount of spice. An 8 oz box.

Jalapeño Peanut Brittle $16

Our time-tested peanut brittle, turned up a notch. We fold in candied jalapeños from Lafitte's in Louisiana, so real green pepper peeks through golden, glassy candy. Hand-pulled thin enough to shatter cleanly, it brings a sweet heat that builds slowly without crowding out the buttery peanut.

Hot Honey Popcorn $18

This one packs more heat than our traditional South Texas style. We work hot honey and cayenne into our signature caramel, so every crunchy kernel brings sweetness first and a slow, warm burn after. Keep a bowl out and watch it disappear.

Stretching peanut brittle by hand while it is still warm.
